

Handsomeness of Henry Hutchinson Won Sweepstakes

When Henry Hutchinson, of 618 Emmett street, learned that his Single Comb Black Minorca hen had won the grand sweepstakes prize at the county fair he expressed considerable astonishment; he thought that some error had been committed. But the decision stood—and it was made by a man able to judge.

"I had no thought of entering any winners," said Mr. Hutchinson. "My sole idea was to add something to what I feared would be a slim showing. Of course, I knew that I had some good stock, all right; but I didn't take any pains over this hen. If I had thought there were to be so splendid a showing as it proved I should never have made an entry. But I'm glad now that I did, for by so doing I have been on the grounds more and I have learned a lot."

Mr. Hutchinson feels jubilant over the success of the first county fair, for he had been worried lest there should have been an element of failure. "I am an enthusiast when it comes to producing anything from the ground," he says. "If more people would produce something for their table, as they can easily do in this county, the entire family would be more healthy, and much happier. I know what I'm talking about. When more people will realize this point there will be an entirely different condition existing in Putnam county, and the fair association will need to secure grounds many times larger than the present quarters to accommodate all the entries."
